PH- I've had the first volume of the Dallas communications index up from the lower depths for more time than I like to admit but have not been able to find time to go over it for appeals purposes. I took the time this p.m. and as soon as Idl can find time she'll make copies of about the first 1/4 inch of it. This should give you a fair sample and includes the illustrations I want for appeals purposes. When you responded you asked for a sample. The whole thing is now 1514 pages and there will be immeasureably more, from the main index and to correlate "previously processed" claims with the record allegedly previously processed. However, the documents index in itself will not grow. It is 1514 pp. If you decide you want the whole thing perhaps the best approach now would be to make arrangements with the place where Jim has commercial xeroxing done, not far from his office, and on a day when I have to go to Washington for a deposition (if any now) I can leave it off early and having made prior arrangements picking it up at the end of the day. I don't know their present charge but guess it is about 6¢ a page. ...Sylvia has told me it is OK to let the appeals office at DJ have copies of what she is providing through you, so when this happens please send me two copies and let me know what I owe you. It may help make other records available to show what HSCA disclosed. I've caught them withholding what HSCA was given permission to disclose in the King case. And it was public domain anyway. ...There has been no interest here in the report since the first few days. Not a single press inquiry. Almost none from others who write me. ...I've loaned Golz the print of the Doyle film I finally got from the FBI, he and Mack have examined it and believe the sequences (or what remains of them) have been reversed as would not have been possible without alteration of the film. Now that Doyle can have my print for security, which I've agreed to, Earl is asking him to let Groden examine what the FBI returned to him. HW 6/15/79
